1. Through the woods

Once upon a time there was a sweet little girl whom everyone loved. Her grandmother had made her a little red velvet cap, and because she would never wear anything else, she was called Little Red Riding Hood. One day her mother said, "Take this cake and bottle of wine to your grandmother, who is ill. Go quietly and do not leave the path, for the woods are deep." Little Red Riding Hood promised, took her basket, and set out through the tall trees.

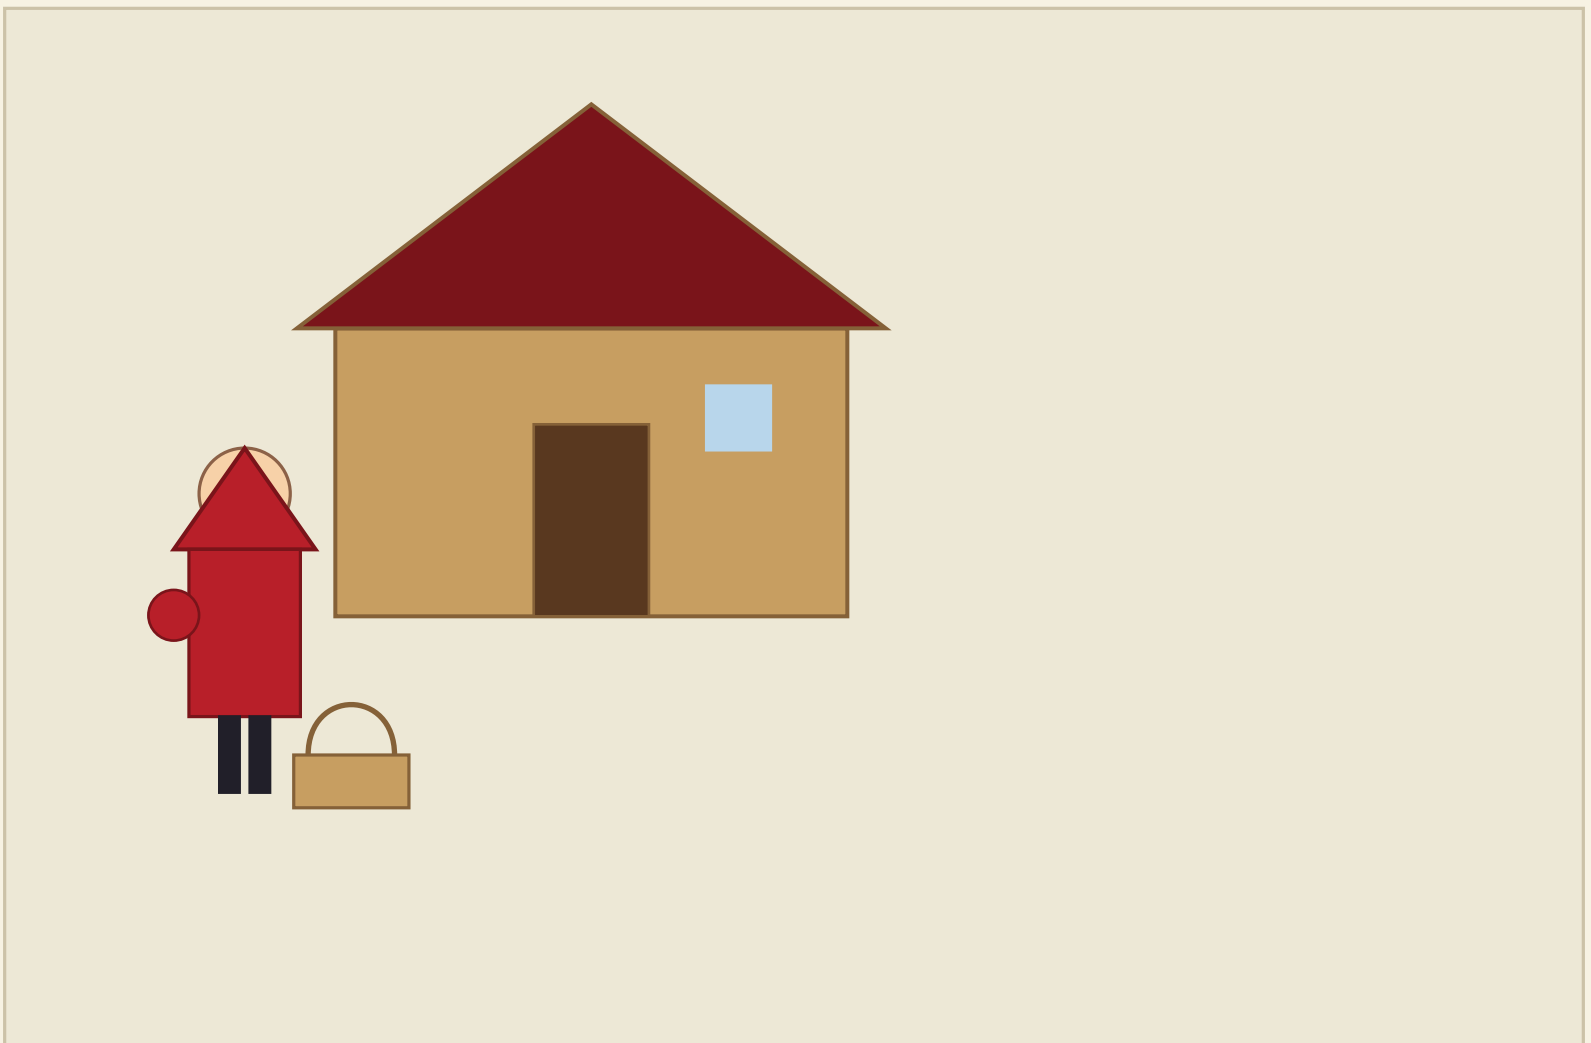

2. The wolf on the path

Little Red Riding Hood had not gone far when a Wolf met her. He wished her good day, but thought to himself, "What a tender young creature ? what a nice meal she would make!" He asked where she was going. "To my grandmother, who lives in the wood," she answered. The Wolf walked a while beside her, then said, "See how the flowers bloom! Why not gather a bouquet for your grandmother?" While the child picked flowers, the Wolf ran straight to the grandmother's house.

3. At grandmother's door

The Wolf knocked at the cottage door. "Who is there?" called the grandmother. "Little Red Riding Hood," answered the Wolf, disguising his voice. "Pull the latch and come in." The Wolf entered, and the poor grandmother had no time to cry out before he swallowed her whole. Then he put on her cap, lay in her bed, and waited. Soon Little Red Riding Hood arrived with her basket and wondered why the door stood open.

4. What big eyes you have

Inside the cottage Little Red Riding Hood drew near the bed. "Grandmother, what big ears you have!" "All the better to hear you with, my child." "Grandmother, what big eyes you have!" "All the better to see you with." "Grandmother, what big teeth you have!" "All the better to eat you with!" At that the Wolf sprang up ? but just then a huntsman passing by heard the cry, rushed in, and rescued them both. Grandmother came out well, Little Red Riding Hood learned to keep to the path, and they ate the cake together.
